

PETERSBURG

HUSTINGS COURT WILL RESUME ITS SITTINGS

Most Important Case to Come Up Is That of Richard Thomas, Alleged Murderer.

EVIDENCE IS CIRCUMSTANTIAL

Victim in Hotel Is Victim of Heavy Robbery—Report of Department Made by Chief of Police—Stock Farm Sold.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Petersburg, Va., August 1.—After a cess of several days, the Hustings court will resume its sittings on August 4, and will take up several important cases for trial. The most important of these is that of Richard Thomas, charged, indicted for the murder of Miss Green, colored. The evidence in this case is mainly circumstantial. The woman victim died in the hospital of poison, she said that had been indicated by Thomas in beating her.

Heavy Robbery.
When Henry Birchett, colored, employed as a waiter at the Hotel of 129 and 131, went to his room in the southern part of the city late last night, he found the door locked, and the proprietor of the house was unable to open the door for him. He got into the room through a window, to find that it had been ransacked, and several suits of clothing, a valise, a watch, a $20 bill and other articles missing. The total loss amounting to $119. The matter was reported to the police, who are searching for Isaac Vaden, a negro, suspected robber, who roomed in the same house, but who skipped town early this morning. In 1903 Vaden killed up and robbed an elderly woman in Prince George County, for which he was convicted and given a term of eighteen years in the penitentiary, having served half of his term, he is now out on parole.

A Month's Arrests.
The report of the chief of police for a month of arrests, as follows: 192 arrests for all causes, as follows: drunkenness, 63; assaults, 23; felony, 12; robbery, 11; fugitives from justice, 5; suspension of 25; vagrants, 8; disorderly, 2; violations of 25. As usual, the "drunk" figure largely in a report.

Stock Farm in Chesterfield.
Counsellman J. R. Jones yesterday purchased a tract of 300 acres of land in Chesterfield County, about four miles from Petersburg, fronting nearly on the Atlantic Coast Line road, and running through to the river and Petersburg, for which high he is to improve and use exclusively as a stock farm. The price paid for the land was $12,000.

Contract Awarded.
The contract for the electrical work on the new building under construction for the Haysden Academy has been awarded to E. Mason Hill, Richmond, of this city. The building requires the one destroyed by fire last season. It is an attractive structure, four stories in height. The classrooms, assembly hall and offices occupy the first floor, and the upper floors will be used as dormitories for about 100 pupils.

Forty Years' Service.
J. M. E. Holmes, colored, letter carrier, No. 1, last night completed his forty consecutive years of service in a post-office here. He was appointed by Dr. Joseph Jorgensen on August 1, 1874, and has served continuously since, except that any change of station has been in the Petersburg office. He has been a faithful and courteous official.

General News Notes.
Dr. James Hargrave's automobile, used to have been taken yesterday morning, was recovered last evening in front of the hotel.
A fire occurred this morning in the celling of Henry Bryant, in Blundell street. The flames were extinguished by buckets of water before the fire burning reached the ceiling, and the damage was slight.
The local stock office in this city is closed yesterday, to reopen as soon as the stock exchanges in New York resume business.

W. Howard, aged seventy-five years, died this week at his home in Henric County. He was a Confederate soldier of fine record, was wounded in the charge of Mahone's regiment at the Crater, and was buried on the fiftieth anniversary of that battle.

CHARTS MADE FOR PILOTS

His Services Expected to Give Invaluable Aid to Men Who Will Race Around Globe—Great Landmark to Be Erected.

[Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.] London, August 1.—Arnold Kruckman's labors in London in behalf of the Panama-Pacific Exposition's proposed around-the-world air race ended today with his charting the whole hearted co-operation of Commander J.
Foster Stackhouse, F. R. G. S., who is going to head the notable expedition that starts this fall for a seven years voyage through the oceans of the world, charting islands and unsurveilled coastlines.

Commander Stackhouse, at Kruckman's request, has agreed to modify the expedition's plans somewhat, and begin operations along the coast of Greenland, the benefit of the aviators who will participate in the great race.

From Horror Bay to Cape Farwell, a distance of 450 miles, Stackhouse and his associates will chart the coastline of Greenland, showing every inlet and bay, and paying special attention to the nature of the surrounding shores, the general conditions of the water, whether rocky and forbidding, landing places for aeroplanes, well-sheltered or open roadsteads.

A copy of this chart will be sent to the race headquarters at San Francisco with all speed. Probably before the end of December prints will be made therefrom in sufficient quantities to provide each entrant with one.

Besides this charting of a hitherto unsurveyed portion of Greenland, Commander Stackhouse also will make careful observations of the ice movement over all the Arctic regions in the North Atlantic during December and January, and thus be able to deduct therefrom the probable conditions as regards the southernmost limits of solid ice in May or June, when the aviators arrive at this point of the race.

Commander Stackhouse has assigned Equimaux camped along the coast of Greenland of the coming of the races, and arranged with them to maintain a patrol during the period wherein the aviators may be expected.

After Stackhouse has traversed the distance from Horror Bay to Cape Farwell, he will return by the best and most suitable route from an aviation standpoint.

Still Water Bay, which Stackhouse expects to find near the southernmost end of Greenland, is approximately 199 miles distant from Belle Isle.

Here, on the highest promontory in the neighborhood of the bay, which necessarily is snow-covered the year round, he will erect a great wooden cross 150 feet high, painted black.

This landmark will be seen at a great distance by the racers, who will understand it marks the location of especially constructed hangars wherein parts of engines, planes, fuel, provisions and everything that can be possibly needed will be found.

Stackhouse will figure the exact course from this point of Belle Isle by deed reckoning, so that aviators will be able to set their course without trouble or making calculations for the variation in compass.

As a further aid to the aviators Commander Stackhouse will arrange with the Equimaux to have two fishing boats patrol the coast during May and June.

Stackhouse's keen interest in the race has been still further evidenced by his acceptance of the chairmanship of the commission which will make a special chart of the course the racers are to follow.

This chart will show the topographical and geographical conditions for fifty miles on each side of the course of the flyers, especially reference being paid to favorable landing places.

Every thousand miles will be under control. Maps will be made in separate divisions of a thousand miles each.
Stackhouse is peculiarly well fitted to supervise the making of these charts, as he has been familiar with aeroplanes in almost every part of the world and is lead of the international antarctic and oceanographical expeditions, and perhaps the best versed man in a knowledge of the world's surface of any man the ages have ever known.

Among the latest applicants to signify their intention of competing in the races is Walter L. Brook, the young American, who has won three races in England this year.
